Program Approval

Introduction

This agenda item presents two single subject matter programs submitted by institutions of higher education for approval.

Background

The Commission regularly receives recommendations for program approval from single subject matter review panels. These panels of subject matter experts review all program documentation and make an informed determination whether the program meets the standards common to all subject matter programs and also the content specific subject matter standards. The content specific subject matter standards are closely aligned to the K-12 academic content standards. These subject matter programs are usually undergraduate courses of study completed before candidates begin teacher preparation programs. However, the two programs may be completed concurrently.

Subject Matter Program Review Procedures

Following are the general procedures for the review of subject matter programs:

1. Technical Assistance – After the Commission adopts a set of new program standards, Commission staff members provide technical assistance to prospective program sponsors wishing to submit responses to the new standards. Technical assistance materials are provided on the Commission’s website. Staff members train, assign, and coordinate review team work.
2. Preconditions Review – After the program proposal is received, Commission staff review the sponsor’s response to the preconditions. The preconditions are based on both state laws and Commission policies, and address minimum unit and content area requirements. If the preconditions response is incomplete, the sponsor is requested to provide specific information necessary for compliance with the preconditions.
3. Program Review – The program sponsor’s responses to the Commission’s subject matter program standards are reviewed by a team of two or more subject matter educators to determine if the program meets the program standards, including the subject matter requirements (SMRs). The SMRs are the content knowledge required to be covered in the program and are aligned to the K-12 content standards that the candidate will be expected to know. The reviewers are trained in the alignment of the standards and subject matter requirements and in the review process before they are assigned proposals to review. Reviewers are instructed to find explicit evidence that programs not only align with K-12 content standards but also introduce their candidates to those standards within the context of their subject matter studies. The team must reach consensus that each standard is met based upon evidence provided in the document. If the program does not meet the standards, the sponsor is given an explanation of the findings. The sponsor may then submit the additional information requested. Once reviewers determine that the program proposal provides a convincing and adequate body of evidence to meet the Commission's adopted subject matter program standards, the program is recommended to the Commission for approval.

4. After subject matter program approval is granted by the Commission, the institution may admit candidates to the approved subject matter program. Graduates of a Commission approved single subject matter preparation program meet the Commission's subject matter requirement and are not required to take the subject matter examination (California Subject Examinations for Teachers).

This report presents two single subject matter programs that have been deemed to have met all of the appropriate Standards of Quality and Effectiveness for Single Subject Matter Preparation Programs (www.ctc.ca.gov/educator-prep/STDS-subject-matter.html) by appropriate review panels and is recommended to the Commission for approval. The programs brought forward to the Commission for approval at this time are: California State University, Sacramento Single Subject Matter: Home Economics and California State University, Fullerton Single Subject Matter: World Language: ELD.

Summary Information on the Proposed Single Subject Matter Program

California State University, Sacramento Single Subject Matter Home Economics

The Single Subject Matter program in Home Economics at California State University, Sacramento will provide students the opportunity to complete content area studies in Home Economics and prepare them for subsequent studies in a credential program. The program has been designed to meet the Home Economics Subject Matter Programs. The Single Subject Matter Home Economics program will prepare students to teach in all areas of Home Economics (Family and Consumer Sciences): culinary, fashion, interior design, child development, and consumer sciences. Students who complete this program are introduced to hospitality, tourism and recreation industry, fashion and interior design industry and education, child development and family services industry. Coursework includes studies in Home Economics including: Child Development and Guidance, Consumer Education, Family and Human Development, Fashion, Textiles and Apparel, Food and Nutrition, Housing and Furnishings, Individual and Family Health, and Leadership Development. These studies will equip students with essential skills for living as well as prepare students for entry into career pathways in all areas of Home Economics such as child development, consumer services, education, family and human services, fashion design manufacturing and merchandising, food science, dietetics, and nutrition, food service and hospitality, hospitality, tourism, recreation, interior design, furnishings and maintenance.

Students complete an undergraduate field experience in a local home economics program in a middle or high school. This experience prepares them to enter the credential program with experience working with students in classrooms. Students also become involved in FHA-HERO, the Career Technical Student Organization associated with Home Economics Careers and Technology through judging at region competitions, observation of local chapter work, and selected experiences at the state level.

California State University, Fullerton Single Subject Matter World Language: English Language Development (ELD)

California State University, Fullerton's (CSUF) Single Subject Matter World Language: ELD program has been designed by the Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL) program in the Department of Modern Languages and Literatures in collaboration with three other departments: Department of Secondary Education; Department of English, Comparative Literature, and Linguistics; and Department of American Studies. The program is designed to meet the needs of future ELD teachers and prepare them for teaching students who attend California public schools. Over the past three years, the TESOL faculty at CSUF have discussed options for coursework across several disciplines to comply with the Single Subject Matter program for World Language: ELD preconditions and standards. Six new courses were designed and approved by the university to address the Single Subject Matter World Language: ELD standards.

The course plan provides students with a thorough knowledge of English as essential to systematically teaching second language learners in California schools. These courses provide background on English Learners in California and the United States and instruction in applied linguistics, culture, assessment, literacy, English Language Development, and principles of receptive and productive language instruction and assessment, all with appropriate application of technology. The coursework provides additional depth and breadth study in literacy in secondary schools as well as foreign language, TESOL, American studies, and comparative literature. Under the fieldwork component, students conduct classroom observations and interviews with teachers in several classes and participate in service-learning in two ELD classes.

Syllabi describe course goals and grading criteria based upon a variety of assessment formats. The culminating assessments for the program include a summative evaluation of subject matter content to be done through two signature assignments, a content-based assessment assignment and a research paper. The scores of these assignments will be aggregated periodically by program leaders to highlight both candidate competence and program effectiveness.

Recommendations

Based upon a determination by reviewers that the following entities have met all relevant standards and requirements, staff recommends Commission approval of the following subject matter programs: California State University, Sacramento Home Economics and California State University, Fullerton World Language: English Language Development.

The California School Paraprofessional Teacher Training Program A Report to the Legislature

Executive Summary

The primary purpose of the California School Paraprofessional Teacher Training Program (PTTP) was to create local career ladders that enable school paraprofessionals – including teacher assistants, library-media aides, and instructional assistants – to become certificated classroom teachers in K-12 public schools. This pathway to teaching program was established in 1990 by Chapter 1444 of the Statutes of 1990 (SB 1690, Roberti), which added sections 69619 to 69619.3 to the State Education Code. The PTTP program was subsequently expanded by Chapters 737 and 831 of the Statutes of 1997 (The Wildman-Keeley-Solis Exemplary Teaching Training Act of 1997), which added sections 44390 to 44393 to the State Education Code. Chapter 554 of the Statutes of 2007 (SB 193, Scott) was signed into law in October 2007. SB 193 amended the law, which now includes a mandate for common entry and participation criteria for new PTTP participants.

Changes to the PTTP and program funding occurred when, as part of the revised 2008-09 budget, the Governor and the Legislature changed how funds for General Fund Proposition 98 programs were allocated. PTTP funding was no longer identified as a per participant allocation and became a part of a block grant in which the local education agency (LEA) has flexibility in determining how PTTP funds are used. Due to the 2008-2009 Tier III funding designation, the enrollment of new participants in the PTTP program was suspended in March 2011.

The 2013-2014 state budget process and subsequent legislation brought additional significant changes to the funding and program status of the PTTP. Funding for the PTTP and other Proposition 98 Local Assistance Programs is now part of the Local Control Funding Formula (LCFF). Program funding under LCFF remains flexible and the program sponsors may elect to use funds for other educational purposes. Additionally, under LCFF, most of the state categorical programs such as PTTP have been folded into the flexible funding for districts and county offices of education. AB 97 (Chap. 47, Stat. 2013) includes implementation requirements for LCFF.

Section 44393 of the Education Code requires the Commission on Teacher Credentialing (Commission) to report to the Legislature regarding the status of the California School Paraprofessional Teacher Training Program. This report fulfills the Commission's legislative reporting requirement.

The California School Paraprofessional Teacher Training Program

I. Description of the California School Paraprofessional Teacher Training Program

From 1995 to 2008, the California School PTTP provided academic scholarships and other related academic support services directly to individuals recruited from paraprofessional job classifications who are seeking a preliminary California teaching credential as a K-12 teacher (with special emphasis on individuals seeking to become a bilingual, special education, K-3 teacher, or a teacher in another field of identified district need). PTTP programs were sponsored by local school districts, county offices of education and/or consortia that applied to the Commission for program funding based on a competitive grant application process. During that time, participating districts have been responsible for local efforts in terms of recruiting and enrolling participants in the program, monitoring the progress of participants in accordance with each participant's individual education plan, providing supplementary academic support services as needed by participants, assigning mentors or "buddies" to facilitate continued progress and expending state program funds in support of participants' certification goals. Participants did not directly receive program funds. Instead, the program sponsor expended state program funds on behalf of the participants for the tuition, fees, books and other services at an institution of higher education while the participant is completing his/her education and/or teaching credential preparation. At the time of this writing, the Commission is not aware of any local education agencies continuing to support paraprofessional teacher training in this way.

Historical Certification Path for PTTP Participants

The typical certification path for a PTTP participant was to be accepted into the PTTP, complete degree and subject matter requirements and complete an internship program which culminated in full teacher certification. The PTTP graduate then entered the Beginning Teacher Support and Assessment (BTSA/Induction) program to complete an induction program that built upon the skills of the newly credentialed teacher and supported him/her through the first two years of certificated employment. PTTP program sponsors that placed a focus on recruitment of paraprofessionals seeking special education certification also were required to have a collaborative relationship with their Special Education Local Plan Area (SELPA). These collaborative relationships resulted in enrichment for PTTP participants, as the skills and knowledge paraprofessionals already possessed were enhanced by the academic support and professional development activities offered by the local intern, BTSA/Induction and SELPA programs. This additional support facilitated participant success in fulfilling degree and certification requirements. As of summer 2012, the PTTP had produced a total of 2,267 fully-credentialed program graduates.

II. Program Funding History

Initial Funding and Program Expansion

Although the initial legislation authorizing the California School PTTP was enacted in 1990 and amended in 1991, funding for program implementation was not provided until the 1994-95 state budget. The PTTP was identified at that time as a pilot program, with a legislative requirement to recruit a maximum of 600 paraprofessional participants. Initial program funding in the 1994-95 state budget was set at $1.478 million in local assistance funds for program implementation, and $60,000 in funds was added to the budget of the Commission to administer the program. These state operations funds were available for that fiscal year but were not included in subsequent budgets. For the other fifteen years that the Commission administered the program, administrative costs were sustained in the base budget of the Professional Services Division of the Commission.

Subsequent expansion legislation in 1997 required the PTTP to recruit a minimum of 600 paraprofessionals and established an expenditure cap of $3,000 in state funds per participant per year. However, no funding was allocated for the required program expansion. Additional funding became available in the 1999-2000 state budget through a $10 million program augmentation, bringing program funding to $11.478 million. PTTP program funding was reduced in July 2002 in response to fiscal challenges faced by the state. The PTTP allocation was reduced from $11.478 million to $6.583 million.

Although there were increases in tuition costs, the PTTP received no funding increase from 1999-2000 until the Budget Bill Act of 2006-07. The Budget Bill Act of 2006-07 allocated a PTTP per capita funding increase of $500. As of July 1, 2007, program funding increased from $6.583 million to $7.80 million and participants received support in the amount of $3,500 per capita annually to support their teacher certification goal.

Tier III Funding Designation

As part of the 2008-2009 mid-year budget negotiations, the Governor and Legislature changed how funds for Proposition 98 programs were allocated. Senate Bill X3 4 (Chap. 12, Stats. 2009) identified the PTTP as a Tier III program and the total program allocation was reduced. Tier III status provided a school district or county office of education the flexibility to reallocate funds intended to be used in support of paraprofessionals for other educational purposes. Local Education Agencies (LEAs) that used the flexibility provision were required to hold a local public hearing prior to reallocation of funds. In districts where the PTTP funds were reallocated, the LEA was still deemed to be in compliance with program and funding requirements contained in statute, regulatory and provisional language. Due to the 2008-2009 Tier III funding designation and uncertainty of program continued funding, in March 2011 Commission staff no longer enrolled new PTTP participants.

2013-2014 Local Control Funding Formula

During 2013 budget negotiations, legislation was enacted that changed the way LEAs are funded. The 2013-2014 Budget Act included legislation that changed school finance funding from a tiered categorical funded programs system to a system focused on equity, transparency and performance through the Local Control Funding Formula (LCFF). According to the California Department of Education website, the goal of the LCFF is to significantly simplify how state funding is provided to LEAs. Among the changes, LCFF allowed LEAs greater flexibility to use funds to improve student outcomes. Additionally, most state categorical programs that were included in the previous tiered categorical program funding system were included in the LCFF.

III. Program Policy Issues

Funds Recovery Efforts - §44393 (d)(4)

PTTP funds were provided through the Proposition 98 local assistance fund. The PTTP served as a valued teacher recruitment and development program since 1995 and included the successful recruitment and full teacher training and certification of more than 2,200 program graduates. Although the program was successful, some PTTP participants did not satisfy certification requirements and have not provided required certificated service pursuant to §44393 (d) (3). This included required service as a teacher in California, which was further complicated by the economic downturn in 2008, preventing some participants from either completing an intern program or finding teaching positions. Section §44393 (d) (4) requires dropped participants who did not fulfill their certification and service obligations to reimburse the State of California.

At this time, the only aspect of the PTTP program currently in place is that the Commission staff continues to collect funds from dropped participants who failed to meet certification and employment requirements. Funds recovered through these efforts are reported annually to the California Department of Finance pursuant to Education Code Section 44393 (h) (2).

IV. Conclusion

The PTTP was established to address local employer needs and teacher shortages, particularly in the areas of bilingual education, English language learner education, and special education. Between 1995 and 2008, during which funding was available per participant, the PTTP has produced more than 2,200 educators for the State of California. The number of successful, fully-credentialed program graduates and their areas of certification demonstrate a dedication and commitment to the education of California's children.

Identification of the PTTP as part of the LCFF has created a new reality for an effective teacher development program that has previously met its legislative mandates. Due to the recent changes in program status and funding, and given that local program sponsors may choose to use dollars previously intended for the PTTP for unrelated yet important purposes, and because the Commission has not enrolled new participants since 2011, it has not been possible for Commission staff to collect the required data regarding program operation and program participants so that complete data can be reported to the legislature as required in law.
