PUBLIC HEARINGS
Chairman Bersin opened the public hearing portion of the meeting.

PH-1: Proposed Amendments to Sections 80001 and 80434 of Title 5, California Code of Regulations, Pertaining to the Definitions and Terms and Acceptance of Electronic Signatures
Dale Janssen, Director, Certification, Assignments and Waivers Division, explained that the proposed amendments to Title 5 had already been approved on an emergency basis by the Office of Administrative Law, effective June 3, 2002. The public hearing was being conducted to make the emergency amendments permanent.

The two sets of amendments involve electronic signatures and the use of electronic transmission of documents. Under the Teacher Credential Service Improvement Project, the Commission has created an online system that allows teachers and day-to-day substitutes to renew their credentials through the Internet. One part of the process requires a digital or electronic signature when the applicant responds to personal and professional conduct questions. The first set of amendments adds to the definitions in Title 5 and clarifies that the Commission can accept an electronic signature.

The second set of amendments concerns delivery of documentation. This looks ahead to the anticipated implementation of a final phase of the Teacher Credential Service Improvement Project, which will allow colleges and universities to submit transcripts and other documentation for certification electronically. The amendments clarify that the Commission can accept documents transmitted in this manner.

Mr. Janssen reported that the Commission received comments from 18 organizations and seven individuals in support of the amendments. Two organizations opposed the amendments.
PH-2: Proposed Amendments to Section 80054 of Title 5, California Code of Regulations, Pertaining to the Requirements for the Administrative Services Credential

Assistant Consultant Terri Fesperman reviewed the proposed changes, which allow an administrative services credential applicant to submit verification of completion of the preliminary credential requirements from any accredited program, not solely from a university or college program. This allows alternative routes that are authorized in law but not addressed in the regulations. The Commission received comments from three organizations and seven individuals in support of the amendments and from two individuals in opposition.

Chairman Bersin asked Ms. Fesperman to describe the outreach made to obtain comments. She said that a public hearing notice was distributed to the Commission’s list of correspondents and to a variety of organizations and institutions, including county and district superintendents, credential analysts, deans and directors of education at universities and various professional organizations. In addition, the proposed change is noted on both the Commission’s and the Office of Administrative Law’s web sites. Chairman Bersin noted that the change had been the subject of long consideration by the Commission and much discussion at prior meetings.

CHAIRMAN BERSIN then asked for questions from Commissioners; there were none. He then opened the floor to public comment. Three people spoke about the amendments:

Sharon Robison, Association of California School Administrators (ACSA), said her organization supports the amendments. She made three points: 1) the action makes the regulations consistent with recently enacted state law; 2) it assures that there is an opportunity for multiple providers and multiple pathways; and 3) it maintains the integrity of the credential by ensuring that all programs are required to meet the same standards and rigorous requirements.

Dr. Louis Wildman, California State University, Bakersfield, who said he was representing his own viewpoint rather than the university’s. He opposed the amendments, providing five points. 1) He argued that the evolution toward administrative focus on curriculum makes it more important than ever that administrative credential candidates be prepared in an environment with full access to faculty from all disciplines, not just within institutions or programs narrowly focused on procedures. He encouraged the Commission to consider adopting national-based standards and accreditation of administrators through the National Council on Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE). 2) Dr. Wildman said adding additional providers does promote competition but that the end result is that candidates seek out the fastest and easiest way to get credentials rather than the best, most effective programs. 3) He said school district-run programs would stifle academic freedom because administrative applicants would not be able to question what they are taught in a program operated by people they will be seeking jobs from. 4) He believes the shortage of school administrators stems from poor pay and working conditions. By creating the opportunity to credential more administrators, adding new programs takes the pressure off the system to improve pay and conditions. 5) It removes the professionalism of the training, making it more akin to the 19th century when physicians trained in barbershops and lawyers studied in law offices. In summation, Dr. Wildman argued that now more than ever, preparation should be handled by universities where candidates can be exposed to ongoing research.

Bruce Kitchen, representing the school personnel officials for San Bernardino and San Diego counties. He noted that his organization has been working with the Commission on changes to eliminate the bottleneck in administrative credential preparation for the past two and a half years. He said his organization is in full support of the amendments.

Vice Chairman Madkins said that the Commission has had multiple discussions in the past about the administrative credential system and that a variety of people have come to provide input and comments about the proposed changes. He said that the intent is to have multiple pathways available to a wide range of people who may be qualified to take on administrative duties in a district, but to do so without challenging in any way whether a university or college program does a good job in preparing candidates.

Chairman Bersin closed the public hearing, and thanked Dr. Wildman for stepping forward with his reasoned, thoughtful comments. He also thanked the Commission staff for carrying out a long and thorough process to explore the options that have now led to a significant change in policy.

A motion to adopt the amendments as submitted was made (Madkins), seconded (Johnson) and approved without dissent.

APPROVAL OF THE JULY 2002 COMMISSION MINUTES

A motion to approve the July 2002 Commission minutes was made (Johnson), seconded (Fortune) and carried without dissent. Chairman Bersin abstained since he was not present in July.

ANNUAL CALENDAR OF EVENTS

CHAIR'S REPORT
Chairman Bersin took the occasion of the opening of the 2002-03 school season to note that it has been a decade since SB 1422 and the beginning of a push to revitalize public education in California, as well as throughout the country. He said it is a notable time in history because while public education faces more challenges than ever before, it also has become established policy at the state and federal level that a shared, basic value for education is that each child is entitled to a high-quality educational opportunity. He said he believes that for the first time, America is moving towards delivering on that promise. Recent data shows an upward trend in academic achievement across California. There is still a long way to go, and he said he anticipates the Commission continuing to play a strong role in ensuring that progress continues. Chairman Bersin said there are two competing tensions that are best expressed in two opposite proverbs: Look before you leap; she who hesitates is lost. The task, he said, is to balance the wisdom contained in the two proverbs - to carry out the work of the Commission with a sense of urgency but to move forward thoughtfully and carefully. In the meantime, it is appropriate to celebrate progress in student achievement.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR’S REPORT
Dr. Swofford introduced Robert Moore, the Interim Executive Director of the California Postsecondary Education Commission (CPEC). He said the Commission looks forward to working with Mr. Moore and CPEC.

Dr. Swofford reported that Dr. Mary Williams has resigned her position as a public member of the Committee of Credentials because of her temporary appointment to the faculty of George Mason University in Fairfax, Virginia. He thanked her for her service and said her insight will be missed. Dr. Swofford introduced Rita Bianchi of the San Joaquin County Office of Education who is the designated public member alternate.

He also introduced two new consultants in the Professional Services Division: Cheryl Hickey who comes to the Commission from CPEC where she was a senior policy analyst for eight years; and Dan Parker, also formerly a senior policy analyst with CPEC, serving as that Commission’s editor and news media liaison. In another personnel-related announcement, he said that Joe Gee was absent because his wife had undergone recent, successful surgery.

Dr. Swofford then asked Mary Sandy, Director of the Professional Services Division, to brief the Commission on the status of implementing SB 2042. Ms. Sandy began by noting how successful the Commission’s recent third annual Teacher Quality Matters conference was, attracting 500 participants and focusing on induction. She thanked Chairman Bersin and Vice Chairman Madkins for launching the conference and Commissioner Fortune and Ex-Officio Representative Justus for participating on a panel that responded to the keynote speaker. Moving to implementation of SB 2042, she said that the Commission adopted new standards for teacher credentialing programs and processes last September and for induction programs in March. These new standards require the review and Commission approval of 330 programs by December 2003. Prior to today’s hearing, 23 have been approved, with four more pending. The program submission window for September has brought about 30 more program documents in for review, and in two weeks 87 readers will gather to begin going through the documents. Other elements of implementing SB 2042 include continuing approval of subject matter programs and the teacher performance assessment program, which will be discussed in later agenda items.

REPORT ON STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION MEETING
A summary of items from the State Board of Education’s July meeting was provided for information only. This included an update on the status of administrator training under AB 75 (296 training providers approved and 8,998 administrators receiving training); and approval for seven more providers of professional development under the AB 466 Mathematics and Reading Professional Development Program.

LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE
Chairman Madkins convened the Legislative Committee of the Whole.

LEG-1: Status of Legislation of Interest to the Commission
LEG-2: Analyses of Bills of Interest to the Commission
Linda Bond, Director, Office of Governmental Relations, presented the first two committee items: status of legislation of interest to the Commission and analyses of bills of interest to the Commission. Her report included the following:

The Commission’s major sponsored bill, SB 1655 (Scott), was signed into law by the governor. This measure provides alternative pathways and providers for the administrative credential. The law moves from a structure that many saw as burdensome and duplicative to one that focuses on mentoring and support for administrators. Staff expects to bring forth standards based on the new law in the fall.

Another Commission-sponsored bill, SB 1656 (Scott), is on the governor’s desk awaiting signature. The provisions of this bill originally closed a loophole with respect to registered sex offenders. It now also tightens provisions for timely notice by school districts to the Commission when a compulsory leave of absence offense has been charged so that the Commission may automatically suspend the credential immediately. This provision had been removed from a prior bill over concerns about cost; however, the costs are expected to be minimal (about $300 statewide) so the provision was added to SB 1656.

AB 2575 (Leach) is on the governor’s desk. This bill was discussed at the July Commission meeting but was not in print at the time. It provides an alternative route for completing subject matter requirements when a candidate holds a master’s degree in the subject. The bill opens a pathway that highly competent individuals may take to obtain a credential without having to repeat subject matter course work or take a subject matter exam. Candidates would still have to complete teacher preparation requirements.

SB 1250 (Vincent) was vetoed. This would have allowed retired teachers to return to the classroom without having to take CBEST if they completed a refresher course. The bill was vetoed as inappropriate at a time when the state and federal governments are trying to raise teaching standards.

SB 2029 (Alarcon) is on the governor’s desk. It would allow district intern programs that satisfy the Commission’s adopted standards to offer a preparation program in special education. Two local education agencies, San Diego and San Joaquin, have expressed interest in doing so.

SB 1646 (Alpert) was left on the inactive file. It would have created an education major in California. However, the author heard that the governor was not receptive to the measure, which some view as lowering standards for subject matter competency so she opted not to go forward with the bill.
C&CA-1: Proposed Addition of Title 5 Section 80020.1, California Code of Regulations, Concerning Additional Assignment
Ms. Fesperman said that the proposal would allow general and standard credential holders to serve mild/moderate and moderate/severe students of preschool age and students in low-incidence disability areas from ages birth to preschool. In addition, it would allow holders of Ryan Specialist Credentials in the low-incidence disability areas of communication, physically and visually handicapped to serve students ages birth to preschool. Teachers would be required to have three years of appropriate experience; those who do not must obtain the Early Childhood Education Certificate for service to mild/moderate and moderate/severe students or the Education Specialist Credential for service to low-incidence disability areas. The provision also includes a sunset date; after 2003, teachers would be required to obtain the appropriate special education credential.

Vice Chairman Madkins said he understood that the matter is technical, designed to take care of an area overlooked in 1993 when other changes were made. He asked how many people will be affected. Ms. Fesperman said there are no exact figures but that an estimate is 100 to 200.

Ex-Officio Representative Wilson said he has a professional concern about allowing people to teach without the proper preparation in the area they will be teaching. Ms. Fesperman said that the individuals have to demonstrate three years’ experience with the age group. He asked if the proposal had been discussed with the Commission on Special Education. Ms. Fesperman said it had not yet been discussed with them, although individuals in the field and the Commission’s own special education experts have been consulted. Dr. Swofford said the public process was beginning and all statewide special education organizations, including the Commission on Special Education, will be informed. Ex-Officio Representative Wilson said he did not want to stop the process but only ensure that all stakeholders are consulted.

PERFORMANCE STANDARDS COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE
Commissioner Johnson convened the Performance Standards Committee of the Whole.

PERF-1: Teaching Performance Assessment Update and Proposed Adoption of Assessment Quality Standards
Ms. Sandy introduced the item and said information would be presented in two parts: an update on the work to develop a prototype of a teacher performance assessment and a set of assessment quality standards that are recommended for adoption.

Amy Jackson, Administrator, Professional Services Division, said the project has made great strides since June 2001 when the Commission authorized a contract with the Educational Testing Service to develop a prototype. A pilot test of the prototype tasks has just been completed, along with formative scoring using scales. She said that last fall, two panels of teachers (Northern California and Southern California) were convened to think through the technical and implementation issues. They developed four tasks and a set of scales to assess teacher performance on each task. There are six areas of teaching, identical to the California standards for the teaching profession, that are being tested:

- Making subject matter comprehensible to students
- Assessing student learning
- Engaging and supporting students in learning
- Planning instruction and designing learning experiences for students
- Creating and maintaining effective environments for student learning
- Developing as a professional educator

A chart was provided to the Commission that summarized the four assessment tasks and related scenarios. Multiple competencies are measured by each task.

The next steps are to do field testing, develop assessor training and administration training. In the spring, the project will move to standard-setting studies.

Commissioner Johnson suggested that staff find wording other than assessment for some of the descriptions of tasks since it means different things at different times and in some ways has become a “loaded” word for people in the field.

Ms. Sandy presented the proposed assessment quality standards. SB 2042 provided two paths for assessment: a Commission developed prototype or local assessments developed by institutions and approved by the Commission. The Commission staff worked on the assessment standards at the same time that teacher preparation standards were being prepared last year, but then revised them based on the work on the prototype during the past year. There are five standards. The first two apply to institutions that are developing their own assessment. The third standard addresses how assessment is administered in a valid, accurate and fair manner; the fourth concerns how assessors are selected and trained; and the fifth centers on how the assessment is administered, resourced and reported upon within the program. She recommended that the Commission adopt the proposed assessment quality standards.

Vice Chairman Madkins said he was encouraged at the Teacher Quality workshop in San Diego to see so many people interested in the sessions on assessment. Commissioner Johnson said that the openness of the process and extensive dialogue with stakeholders has kept everyone informed and is something the Commission can be proud of.

Commissioner Johnson and Designee Whirry both observed that it would make more logical sense for the standard concerning assessors be the last one rather than coming before the standard about assessment administration and reporting. Ms. Sandy said the order can be changed.

A motion to approve the five standards was made (Fortune), seconded (Whirry) and passed without dissent.
In Commissioner Katzman's absence, Commissioner Vaca convened the Preparation Standards Committee of the Whole.

PREP-1: Approval of the Subject Matter Preparation Programs and Designated Subjects Programs Submitted by Colleges and Universities and Local Education Agencies

Betsy Kean and Helen Hawley, Consultants, Professional Services Division, briefed the Commission on the process for reviewing programs submitted by institutions, including providing a schematic that describes the process flow. Dr. Kean said the process involves not only extensive review of documentation provided by institutions, but also frequent interaction and follow up to address questions and concerns from reviewers. Although the presumption is that all programs are approvable, the goal is to help institutions sharpen their programs and gather the evidence that describes and defends their programs as meeting standards.

Dr. Swofford added that California goes further in reviewing its programs than many national organizations and other states. He said when the process is complete, there is a documented file that shows evidence that the institution understands what is needed and is providing it. It's a time-consuming but inherently valuable process.

Commission members Fortune, Wilson, Madkins and Justus thanked staff for the clarification on process, which helps them address questions and concerns that are brought to them.

A motion to approve programs at Antioch University and California State University campuses at Fullerton, Stanislaus, Northridge and Dominguez Hills was made (Madkins), seconded (Johnson) and approved without dissent.

Cheryl Hickey, Consultant, Professional Services Division, presented the proposed final draft of a report required by federal law. Under the law, teacher preparation program sponsors are required to report to the state in the spring, then the state sends a compiled report to the Secretary of Education in October and the Secretary of Education reports on results to Congress.

The Commission's report includes a description of the California certification structure, requirements and assessments, including the effort to align state teacher preparation standards with academic content standards. The report also includes information on the number of emergency permits and waivers and their distribution within low-performing schools. It covers pass rates on CBEST, RICA and subject matter assessments. In addition, hundreds of pages in the appendix cover complete information for each institution.

Diane Tanaka, Assistant Consultant, Professional Services Division, summarized the pass rates for the Commission. The overall pass rate for successfully completing programs averages 97 percent statewide, ranging from 89 to 100 percent. The RICA pass rate was 97 percent on average, ranging from 86 to 100 percent. Enrollment in teacher preparation programs was up more than 28 percent from the prior year, from 52,692 in 1999-2000 to 67,598 in 2000-2001.

The next step is for the Commission to approve the report, which will then be reformatted for federal reporting purposes and transmitted to Washington, D.C., as well as placed on the Commission web site. The Commission report in its original form will also be placed on the federal web site as a supplementary link.

Commissioner Fortune asked Dr. Swofford if the federal government had revised its standards so that there was a meeting of the minds about how California reports figures. Dr. Swofford said that there has been no substantive change, but that staff did their best to make sure that data was well defined. One controversial issue is whether CBEST results reflect the quality of preparation programs. They do not, since they are a pre-program-entry requirement; however, the federal government continues to require that CBEST be part of the report. Commission staff has focused on trying to find ways to make the information in the report useful, at the same time filling in the boxes required by the federal government. He said the particular reporting requirement in the law does nothing to drive improvement of teacher preparation programs because it holds states accountable for the wrong things. It does provide another point of data collection, but the question is how best to use the material for constructive purposes.

A motion to approve the report and submit it to the federal government was made (Johnson,) seconded (Whirry) and approved without dissent.
