August 2009

Adoption of the Preliminary Administrative Services Credential Program Standards

Introduction

When originally written, the standards for preparation of both teachers and administrators included required elements. Programs were required to address both the standards and each of the required elements in order to have programs approved. Beginning in March 2007, agenda items were presented to the Commission regarding updating the SB 2042 multiple and single subject program standards, including modifying the standards to eliminate required elements but ensuring that the language of the standard incorporated the intent of the elements. The modified standards for the preparation of multiple and single subject teachers were approved in January 2009. The work on the Preliminary Administrative Services Credential program standards has followed a similar process. The proposed modified standards are provided in Appendix A of this agenda item.

Background

The formal process for reviewing and revising the Administrative Services Program Standards according to the Commission's adopted schedule will be in 2013. The modification of the standards discussed and endorsed at the August 2008 Commission meeting was more of a reformatting of the present standards. The goal in modifying the Preliminary Administrative Services Credential program standards (Appendix B) was to remove the required elements, while ensuring that no significant content is removed from the standards.

Process to Review the Preliminary Administrative Services Program Standards

Since the modification process is not a formal revision of the administrative services program standards, an informal work group was gathered to begin the discussion and prepare draft language that could be used for stakeholder comment. This informal work group included members who had served on the previous standards development groups well as other educators who are experts in the field of educational administration. The draft modifications from the informal work group were then distributed broadly for input prior to being brought to the Commission for approval.

Each standard and each required element was reviewed to see if the required element was:

1. redundant to what was already stated in the standard, in which case it is proposed for deletion,
2. an addition to the standard, in which case there was discussion as to whether or not the language of the element should be added to the standard, or
3. an explication of the standard, so the concept should be kept as a Program Planning Prompt. Programs are not required to satisfy each Program Planning Prompt and the prompts are not reviewed through accreditation activities.

The informal work group noted that the actual language of the California Professional Standards for Educational Leaders (CPSELs) was the language used for Standard 6, which outlines the curriculum of administrative services preparation programs, and for Standards 10 through 15, which define the candidate outcomes for the program. However, the sub-elements of the CPSELs were not used in the currently adopted standards even though they were a part of the standards as originally developed. Instead, new sub-elements were written for Standard 6 and for Standards 10 through 15. The informal work group noted that it would be preferable to use the complete original language of the CPSELs, that would include the sub-elements, (http://www.wested.org/online_pubs/cpsel_standards.pdf) throughout the program standards without negatively affecting the program content. This idea to more closely align the language of the CPSELs within the standards was used to edit Standard 6 (which was an overly long standard) and Standards 10-15.

Another clarification was in Program Standard 4: Equity, Diversity and Access. In the current standard it is noted that “Candidates know the protections afforded by Education Code Chapter 587, Statutes of 1999 and learn how to work to ensure educational equity for all members of the school community.” It was suggested that explicating actual Education Code language would be more helpful to programs and make the standard clearer. The draft now includes the following language:

“The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn how to maximize academic achievement for students for all ethnic, race, socioeconomic, cultural, academic, linguistic or family backgrounds; gender, gender identity and sexual orientation; students with disabilities and advanced learners; and students with a combination of special instructional needs.”

The work to modify the Preliminary Administrative Services Program Standards has been presented to and endorsed by the Committee on Accreditation and the Commission a number of times as is summarized in the table below:

Body	When	What
Committee on Accreditation	June 2008	The agenda item summarized the progress on implementation of the administrative services program standards and noted areas where additional work might be needed prior to the scheduled revision of the standards in 2013. Among the areas noted was the format of the Administrative Services Credential Program Standards. The standards were originally designed with “required elements.” The Commission was in the process of taking action to remove the “required elements” from the multiple and single subject teacher preparation program standards and the work on the administrative services program standards could follow a similar process as was used for the teacher preparation standards. http://www.ctc.ca.gov/educator-prep/coa-agendas/2008-06-18/2008-06-18-item-17.pdf

Body	When	What
Commission	August 2008	The item presented four topics related to the administrative services program and the implementation of the program standards. The format of the Preliminary standards was one of the four topics. The Commission directed staff to move forward with a process to review the standards and remove the required elements. http://www.ctc.ca.gov/commission/agendas/2008-08/2008-08-3H.pdf
Committee on Accreditation	April 2009	This agenda item presented an update on work of modifying the current standards. Since the standards are scheduled to be fully reviewed in 2013, according to the Commission's standards revision schedule, the present work was to review the standards for clarity, coherence, consistency and ease of use, but not to revise the standards significantly. A side by side comparison of the currently approved standards and suggested modifications was provided for the COA. The COA discussed the substance of the proposed modifications and proposed some minor edits. http://www.ctc.ca.gov/educator-prep/coa-agendas/2009-04/2009-04-item-24.pdf
Committee on Accreditation	May 2009	The agenda item was presented with the comparison of the currently approved standards and suggested revisions. After discussion and general approval, the COA requested that staff post an electronic survey to the field and invite broad stakeholder input, including teachers, principals, other administrators and superintendents, as well as IHE personnel to provide comment. The input they would give would include whether the draft modifications in the language included the same topics as the previous standard language, if there was something that needed to be added and/or something that needed to be eliminated. http://www.ctc.ca.gov/educator-prep/coa-agendas/2009-05/2009-05-item-16.pdf
Commission	June 2009	The information agenda item described the process used to develop the draft modified standards and presented the draft modified preliminary standards for information. In addition, the item described the plan to collect stakeholder feedback on the draft modified standards. http://www.ctc.ca.gov/commission/agendas/2009-06/2009-06-6G.pdf
Committee on Accreditation	June 2009	The agenda item presented the results from the stakeholder survey to the Committee on Accreditation for review. After reviewing the feedback, the Committee took action to forward the proposed modified standards to the Commission for consideration and adoption. http://www.ctc.ca.gov/educator-prep/coa-agendas/2009-06/2009-06-item-09-insert.pdf

Stakeholder Feedback

In the June 2009 Commission agenda (<http://www.ctc.ca.gov/commission/agendas/2009-06/2009-06-6G.pdf>) an appendix provided a side-by-side comparison of the adopted preliminary administrative services program standards and the proposed modifications. A similar chart was provided to stakeholders with the electronic survey. The electronic survey was available beginning May 15, 2009 and was closed on June 19, 2009. Information regarding the electronic survey was disseminated through the Professional Services weekly E-news as well as to representatives of specific stakeholder groups.

The Committee on Accreditation reviewed the stakeholder feedback at its June 2009 meeting. A summary of the feedback is provided in Appendix C of this agenda item. In general, feedback throughout the process on the purpose of the modifications and now the modifications themselves has been extremely positive. Thirty-three individuals began the stakeholder survey and fifteen individuals completed the survey. The Committee on Accreditation asked about the fairly low number of complete responses for the stakeholder survey. COA members speculated that since the modifications had been so positively received throughout the process that stakeholders did not feel the need to give input at this point. Therefore, the Committee on Accreditation took action to forward the proposed modified standards without additional modification to the Commission for consideration and adoption.

As was discussed with the Committee on Accreditation, institutions with approved Preliminary Administrative Services programs would not be asked to re-submit their programs for review under the modified standards. Rather, the programs would begin to use the modified standards once they are adopted and will be reviewed on the modified standards during the Program Assessment portion of the Commission's accreditation activities.

Recommendation

Staff recommends that the Commission approve the proposed modified Preliminary Administrative Services program standards as presented in Appendix A of this agenda item.

Appendix A

Proposed Modified Preliminary Administrative Standards

Standard 1: Program Design and Rationale

The professional leadership preparation program includes a purposeful, developmental, interrelated sequence of learning experiences – some that are carried out in the field and some that occur in non-field settings – that effectively prepare candidates as instructional leaders in a variety of public schools and school districts. The design of the program is based on a sound rationale informed by theory and research aligned with (a) the principles articulated in the Candidate Competence and Performance Standards in Category III, and (b) the principles of various learning theories. The program is designed to provide extensive opportunities for candidates to learn and apply, and includes both formative and summative assessments based on the Candidate Competence and Performance Standards in Category III.

For internship programs:

The design makes allowance for the fact that interns do not have all of the theoretical background desirable for successful service at the beginning of the program. The program shall ensure that interns have a basic understanding of the foundations of administrative practice and an understanding of their specific job responsibilities. Interns are given multiple, systematic opportunities to combine theory with practice. The program design clearly recognizes the particular needs of interns and provides an array of support systems designed to meet the needs of interns enrolled in the program.

Program Planning Prompts:

1. The program design and its delivery form a cohesive set of learning experiences that are informed by adult learning theories and are designed to address the needs of prospective administrators enrolled in the program.
2. The program incorporates multi-media technologies to ensure that candidates develop an understanding of the importance, role and uses of technology for instructional support and improvement, administrative decision-making and the management of data in schools.
3. The program design incorporates the use of multi-media technologies in order to effectively prepare candidates as instructional leaders in a variety of public schools and public districts.

Standard 2: Program Coordination

Each sponsor of an administrative preparation program establishes one or more partnerships that contribute substantively to the quality and effectiveness of the design and implementation of each candidate's preparation. Partnerships address significant aspects of professional preparation. An agreement between the partners is cooperatively established with each partner sharing the responsibility for the implementation and success of the program.

For internship programs:

Cooperating partners recognize the critical importance of administrator preparation by substantively supporting the costs of cooperation through contributions of sufficient human and fiscal resources.

Program Planning Prompts

1. The sponsor of a professional leadership preparation program establishes one or more intensive partnerships with representatives of schools where candidates engage in program-based fieldwork.
2. Partners, such as Advisory Committees, fieldwork agreements and stakeholder groups, establish working relationships, coordinate joint efforts, and rely on each other for contributions to program quality. In discussing program issues, partners value the multiple perspectives of the respective members and draw openly on members' knowledge, professional expertise and practical skills.
3. Partners cooperate in developing program policies and reviewing program practices pertaining to the recruitment, selection and advisement of candidates; development of curriculum; delivery of instruction; selection of field sites; design of field experiences; selection and preparation of field experience supervisors; and assessment and verification of administrator competence.

Standard 3: Development of Professional Leadership Perspectives

By design, the program facilitates each candidate's development of a professional leadership perspective by providing extensive opportunities to analyze implement and reflect on the relationships between theory and practice concerning leadership, teaching, and learning in the context of contemporary school issues in California. The program offers exposure to the essential themes, concepts and skills related to the performance of administrative services, including but not limited to: relationship building; communication skills; the ability to articulate, apply and evaluate theories of leadership; an understanding of and ability to apply, model, and analyze curriculum, instructional strategies, and assessment; an understanding of standards-based accountability systems; and the ability to use data to make decisions regarding program improvement. The program develops each candidate's understanding of how successful resource management affects successful instructional leadership.

Standard 4: Equity, Diversity and Access

The professional leadership preparation program provides each candidate with an opportunity to examine and reflect upon principles of educational equity and diversity and their implementation in school sites, including access to curriculum content and school practices for all students, teachers, staff, parents or caregivers and community members. The program prepares candidates to provide all students and their parents and guardians equitable access to the school, including the curriculum and other programmatic supports in the school. Through coursework and fieldwork, candidates examine their personal attitudes toward race, gender and socio-economic status; learn about ways to examine and confront issues around race, equity and diversity; and take leadership roles in discussions about equity, diversity and access. The program prepares candidates to facilitate and lead stakeholders to provide equitable access to the core curriculum and the school community. The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn how to maximize academic achievement for students for all ethnic, race, socioeconomic, cultural, academic, linguistic or family backgrounds; gender, gender identity and sexual orientation; students with disabilities and advanced learners; and students with a combination of special instructional needs. The program includes a series of planned experiences in which candidates learn to identify, analyze and minimize personal and institutional bias.

Program Planning Prompts:

1. The program design includes the study and discussion of the historical and cultural traditions of the major racial, religious and ethnic groups in California society and an examination of effective ways to include cultural traditions and community values in the school curriculum and school activities.
2. The program design is explicit in developing each candidate's ability to recognize historical and philosophical forces that have given rise to institutional practices, such as systemic forms of racism and sexism, that serve to limit students' access to academic and social success and to create a safe and equitable school setting that establishes and contributes to the physical, social, emotional and intellectual safety of the diverse constituencies of the extended school community.
3. The program is designed to develop each candidate's capacity to recognize students' specific learning needs; develop policy and practices at the school site to ascertain student needs and place students in appropriate learning contexts; collaborate with teachers in developing instructional practices that guarantee full access to the curriculum; and identify and provide resources for all students to have full access to the curriculum and opportunities to engage in extracurricular and co-curricular activities.
4. The program is designed to develop each candidate's understanding of the legal and financial implications of serving a diverse student population.
5. The program is designed to provide each candidate with an opportunity to (1) learn about federal, state and local laws, policies and practices that ensure appropriate accommodations for a diverse student population and (2) understand the role of the site administrator in monitoring and implementing legal and fiscal provisions.

Standard 5: Role of Schooling in a Democratic Society

The professional leadership preparation program provides each candidate with an opportunity to examine the principles of democratic education from a historical and policy perspective. The program prepares each candidate to understand the role of the school in preparing students as future citizens and to identify and analyze the variety of ideas and forces in society that contribute to a democratic society. The program prepares administrators who understand their responsibility in developing and nurturing public support, family participation, community engagement, labor relations and preparing students for the challenges of the future. The program includes the study of how historical and philosophical forces, as well as policy decisions and prevailing practices, have an impact on schooling.

Program Planning Prompts:

1. The program is designed to provide each candidate with an opportunity to understand the relationship between federal, state and local policy and practice with respect to the role that government policy has in ensuring democratic education for all students.
2. The program is designed to provide each candidate with an opportunity to understand labor relations, contract compliance and collective bargaining as it relates to schooling in a democratic society.

Standard 6: Opportunities to Learn Instructional Leadership

The professional leadership preparation program provides multiple opportunities in the program curriculum for each candidate to learn, practice and reflect on the role of instructional leaders as delineated in Standards 10-15 of candidate competence and performance in Category III. The role of the instructional leader is central to the functioning of an effective school, and thus the program provides multiple, systematic opportunities for the candidate to connect theory to practice and develop the knowledge, skill and disposition to foster effective teaching in the service of student achievement. The program curriculum prepares each candidate to view all aspects of leadership through the lens of student learning. The program includes comprehensive, systematic formative and summative assessments that address the full range of competencies described in Category III, Standards 10-15.

Program Planning Prompts:

1. The program is designed to provide knowledge, skills, guided practice and feedback so that candidates are able to promote the success of all students by:
 - a) facilitating the development, articulation, implementation, and stewardship of a vision of learning that is shared and supported by the school community. See candidate competencies in Standard 10
 - b) advocating, nurturing and sustaining a school culture and instructional program conducive to student learning and staff professional growth. See candidate competencies in Standard 11
 - c) ensuring management of the organization, operations, and resources for a safe, efficient, and effective learning environment. See candidate competencies in Standard 12.
 - d) collaborating with families and community members, responding to diverse community interests and needs, and mobilizing community resources. See candidate competencies in Standard 13
 - e) modeling a personal code of ethics and developing professional leadership capacity. See candidate competencies in Standard 14
 - f) understanding, responding to, and influencing the larger political, social, economic, legal and cultural context. See candidate competencies in Standard 15
2. The program is designed to provide opportunities for candidates to learn how to maximize academic achievement for students for all ethnic, race, socioeconomic, cultural, academic, linguistic or family backgrounds; gender, gender identity and sexual orientation; students with disabilities and advanced learners; and students with a combination of special instructional needs. (See Program Standard 4).

Standard 7: Nature of Field Experiences

In the program of administrator preparation, candidates participate in significant field experiences that are designed to facilitate the application of theoretical concepts in practical settings. Each candidate addresses the major duties and responsibilities authorized by the administrative services credential as articulated in Standards 10-15. Field experiences include intensive experiences in a variety of diverse and realistic settings both in the day-to-day functions of administrators and in longer-term policy design and implementation.

For internship programs:

The definition of "field experiences" includes, but is not limited to, the responsibilities of the internship assignment. An assessment of the internship assignment is made to determine what additional experiences need to be planned for the candidate to provide a full range of administrative experiences. Specific supplementary administrative experiences are assigned to interns on the basis of the assessment.

Program Planning Prompts:

1. Authentic and significant field experiences addressing a variety of school levels, settings and a wide range of the typical responsibilities of a full-time administrator are required for each candidate, including field experiences, at least one experience at a site with a diverse school population.

Standard 8: Guidance, Assistance and Feedback

The program sponsor has an effective system by which the candidate's performance is guided, assisted and evaluated in each field experience. In this system, at least one field/clinical supervisor and at least one program supervisor provide complete, accurate and timely feedback including constructive suggestions for improvement to the candidate.

For internship programs:

The definition of "field experiences" includes, but is not limited to, the responsibilities of the internship assignment.

Standard 9: Assessment of Candidate Performance

Prior to recommending each candidate for a Preliminary Administrative Services Credential, one or more persons responsible for the program determine on the basis of thoroughly documented evidence that each candidate has demonstrated a satisfactory performance on the full range of standards of candidate competence and performance in Standards 10 through 15 of Category III. Satisfactory performance is defined as achieving competence as expected for entry-level administrators. During the program, candidates are guided and coached on their performance in relation to the standards of candidate competence and performance using formative assessment processes. Verification of candidate competence is provided by a representative of the program sponsor and at least one field/clinical supervisor.

Program Planning Prompts:

1. The assessment includes two or more assessment methods such as performance, portfolio, presentation, research project, field-experience journal, work sample, interview, oral examination and written examination.
2. The systematic procedures that govern the summative assessment include a defensible process and criteria, such as rubrics, for evaluating performance, an appeal process, and a procedure for candidates to repeat portions of the assessment as needed.
3. The program sponsor ensures that thorough records of each candidate's performance in the summative assessment are maintained.
4. The program staff periodically evaluates the quality, fairness and effectiveness of assessment practices and uses assessment data as one source of information about the quality of the preparation program.

Standard 10: Vision of Learning

Each candidate is able to promote the success of all students by facilitating the development, articulation, implementation, and stewardship of a vision of learning that is shared and supported by the school community.

Each candidate:

Appendix B

Adopted Preliminary Administrative Services Program Standards

Category I: Program Design, Coordination and Curriculum

Standard 1: Program Rationale and Design

The professional leadership preparation program includes a purposeful, developmental, interrelated sequence of learning experiences – some that are carried out in the field and some that occur in non-field settings – that effectively prepare candidates as instructional leaders in a variety of public schools and school districts. The design of the program is based on a sound rationale informed by theory and research aligned with (a) the principles articulated in the Candidate Competence and Performance Standards in Category III, and (b) the principles of various learning theories. The program is designed to provide extensive opportunities for candidates to learn and apply, and includes both formative and summative assessments based on the Candidate Competence and Performance Standards in Category III.

An accreditation team determines whether the preliminary preparation program meets this standard based on evidence provided by the program. The team must determine that the quality of the program has been clearly and effectively substantiated in relation to the following elements.

- 1(a) The design of the program contains essential principles that are clearly grounded in a well reasoned rationale, which draws on sound scholarship and theory anchored to the knowledge base of administrator preparation, is articulated clearly, and is evident in the delivery of the program's coursework and fieldwork.
- 1(b) The program design and its delivery form a cohesive set of learning experiences that are informed by adult learning theories and are designed to address the emerging, developing needs of prospective administrators enrolled in the program.
- 1(c) The program incorporates multi-media technologies to ensure that candidates develop an understanding of the importance, role and uses of technology for instructional support, administrative decision-making and the management of data in schools.
- 1(d) The design of the coursework and fieldwork experiences provides each candidate with opportunities to learn about and manage the use of technology for the improvement of the instructional program.
- 1(e) The program has an organizational structure that provides for coordination of the administrative components of the program that facilitates each candidate's completion of the program.
- 1(f) Coursework and field experiences utilize a variety of strategies for professional instruction and provide multiple opportunities for candidates to learn and practice the Candidate Competence and Performance Standards in Category III, including opportunities to observe administrative practices in diverse settings.

- 1(g) For an internship program, the design makes allowance for the fact that interns do not have all of the "theoretical" background desirable for successful service at the beginning of the program. Interns are given multiple, systematic opportunities to combine theory with practice. The program design clearly recognizes the particular needs of interns and provides an array of support systems designed to meet the needs of interns and non-interns enrolled in the program.
- 1(h) The program design includes planned processes for the comprehensive assessment of individual candidates on all competencies addressed in the program. Criteria are established for individual candidate competency and a clear definition of satisfactory completion of the program is established and utilized to make individual recommendations for the Preliminary Administrative Services Credential. The program sponsor ensures that each candidate demonstrates satisfactory mastery of the Candidate Competence and Performance Standards in Category III at a level appropriate for beginning administrators.

Standard 2: Program Coordination

Each sponsor of an administrative preparation program establishes one or more partnerships that contribute substantively to the quality and effectiveness of the design and implementation of each candidate's preparation. Partnerships address significant aspects of professional preparation. An agreement between the partners is cooperatively established and the terms and agreements of the partnership are binding on both parties with each partner sharing the responsibility for the implementation and success of the program.

An accreditation team determines whether the preliminary preparation program meets this standard based on evidence provided by the program. The team must determine that the quality of the program has been clearly and effectively substantiated in relation to the following elements.

- 2(a) The sponsor of a professional leadership preparation program establishes one or more intensive partnerships with representatives of schools where candidates engage in program-based fieldwork. The program-based fieldwork component offers opportunities for purposeful involvement in cooperative partnership(s) for the design and delivery of programs by various interest groups such as parent and community organizations, institutions of higher education, professional organizations, county offices of education, educational research centers, business representatives, and other groups.
- 2(b) Each partnership includes purposeful, substantive dialogue in which the partners contribute to the structured design of the professional leadership preparation program and monitor its implementation on a continuing basis. Dialogue between partners effectively assists in the identification and resolution of program issues and candidate needs.
- 2(c) Partners establish working relationships, coordinate joint efforts, and rely on each other for contributions to program quality. In discussing program issues, partners value the multiple perspectives of the respective members and draw openly on members' knowledge, professional expertise and practical skills.

- 2(d) Partners cooperate in developing program policies and reviewing program practices pertaining to the recruitment, selection and advisement of candidates; development of curriculum; delivery of instruction; selection of field sites; design of field experiences; selection and preparation of field experience supervisors; and assessment and verification of administrator competence.
- 2(e) Cooperating partners recognize the critical importance of administrator preparation by substantively supporting the costs of cooperation through contributions of sufficient human and fiscal resources.

Standard 3: Development of Professional Perspectives

By design, the program facilitates each candidate's development of a professional perspective by providing extensive opportunities to analyze implement and reflect on the relationships between theory and practice concerning leadership, teaching, and learning in the context of contemporary school issues in California. Comments by stakeholders who responded “Yes” to one of the four questions above:

1. I appreciate the clarity of language for Standard 4. Much better written than previous version.
2. If the Board of Institutional Review differs from the accreditation team then yes. Addition of formal recognition of internship programs as well.
3. Being honest, what you provide comes across pretty much as rhetoric. I focused on the teaching and learning component (sorry, just don't have time to go thru all of them). There is nothing that requires interfacing or accountability. Thus, programs and students are left to their own devices. The language you use does not require participants to "act effectively," but rather to have opportunities and exposure to various topics and behaviors. There is a body of knowledge that now exists as to what makes a difference, and there are leaders who have made a difference. We should be requiring that our students know and use the practices that come from these sources.

General Comments about the Proposed Modified Standards

1. The working group has done a terrific job of streamlining the standards, without compromising the integrity of any sub element or standard as a whole.
2. Great job in making these much easier to work while maintaining rigor and the original intent/substance of the standards.
3. The modifications seem to address all elements in the original standards.
4. In order to be an effective instructional leader one needs to be able to discuss and identify the characteristics of effective instruction. I do not find a place in the standards where an opportunity to struggle with the characteristics of and identification (recognition of) effective instructional practices is provided.

General Comments about the Preparation of School Administrators

1. Preparation programs, working with districts, must maximize opportunities for candidates to participate in and lead activities at their sites that is congruent with the work of effective school leaders.
2. Has there been any assessment of the performance of candidates that have taken university programs and those candidates that took the state exam for their credential? If there is no assessment, I recommend that such an assessment be conducted.
3. No. The modifications are well written and clearly described.
4. Language for pathway for Special Education/Pupil Personnel could be more specific to discipline.
5. No.
6. Will the new California test for Tier I people insure that those passing the test meet ALL of the standards?? IHE graduates should not be held to higher standards than those taking the test without IHE preparation!
7. Not all school administrators will work at a school site. Are there possible accommodations in place for candidates who are currently working at a district level and wish to complete an administrative credential.
8. Not as it applies to the standards.
9. I pretty much said what I think is important on the previous page. I'm not a cynic, nor negative, I believe we all have the same good intentions but have failed to make the needed connections. Good luck with your effort!
