Informative Digest/Policy Statement Overview

Summary of Existing Laws and Regulations

In June 2006, the Commission directed staff to begin the review and revision of the structure and requirements for the Special Education Teaching and Services Credentials and Added Authorizations. Later that summer the State Budget Act included funds to carry out the review and the passage of SB 1209 (Chap. 517, Stats. 2006) authorizing the Commission to study the structure and requirements for the Education Specialist and Special Education Services Credentials. The Special Education Credential Workgroup was formed in December.

At the December 2007 meeting, the Commission approved the Report to the Governor and Legislature on the Study of Special Education Certification. The report, which was sent to the Governor and Legislature on December 21, 2007, contained 25 recommendations for modifications and improvements for Special Education Teaching and Services Credentials and Added Authorizations. In January 2008, the Commission established a Design Team that had the responsibility for developing a set of proposed Standards of Program Quality and Effectiveness for all Education Specialist and Services Credentials, credential authorization statements for teaching and services credentials, and added authorization in special education.

The Workgroup and the Design Team were assisted by subcommittees representing specialized expertise in each of the credential and authorization areas where standards and authorizations were developed. The Office of Administrative Law has approved two sets of special education regulations, the first in July 2009 concerning Added Authorizations in Special Education and the second in June 2010 on Special Education Teaching and Services Credentials

Adaptive Physical Education (APE) Specialist Credential

The APE Specialist Credential is currently an add-on authorization for the holder of a general education credential that authorizes the holder to provide instruction in physical education. The APE credential allows an individual to teach special needs students who are precluded from participating in a general education physical education program or a specially designed physical education program. A subcommittee of the Special Education Workgroup discussed changes to the APE Specialist Credential.

The proposed regulations will:

1) change the title of the credential to ‘Added Authorization’ to better reflect the type of program completed and the type of document earned;

2) combine two sections of APE regulations into one; and
3) add the holder of a special education teaching credential or a services credential with a special class authorization as an appropriate prerequisite. Individuals using these prerequisite credentials would also be required to complete twelve semester units of physical education coursework with a minimum of three semester units in both kinesiology and motor development along with the APE program.

Early Childhood Special Education Added Authorization (ECSEAA)

The authorization for the Early Childhood Special Education Added Authorization was included in the regulations approved in June 2010. There is a separate section of regulations for the requirements and period of validity that needs to be updated.

The proposed regulations will:

1) change the title of the credential to ‘Added Authorization’ to match the recently approved title change made in the ECSE authorization regulation section; and

2) add the preliminary and Level I special education teaching credentials as appropriate prerequisites to earn the ECSEAA. This change aligns with the new requirements to earn a clear Education Specialist Teaching Credential by completion of a Commission-approved induction program that may include up to 12 semester units of coursework. Earning an added authorization such as the ECSEAA is an appropriate option for the clear credential program.

Resource Specialist (RSP) Certificate

The RSP is an add-on authorization for the holder of a special education credential other than the Education Specialist Teaching Credential. The Education Specialist Teaching Credential includes a resource authorization. The RSP Certificate authorizes an individual to provide resource instructional services to special needs students as determined by the Individualized Education Program (IEP), Individualized Family Service Program (IFSP), and/or Individualized Transition Plan (ITP).

Both a preliminary and clear RSP Certificate are issued. The preliminary certificate, issued for three years, must be submitted through an employing agency. The clear RSP Certificate may be submitted through an approved program sponsor, currently either an institution of higher education or Special Education Local Planning Area (SELP). The regulations include a proposal to sunset the SELPA option by July 1, 2013 to allow the programs to transition to a Commission-approved program accredited by the Committee on Accreditation. One additional route, through an employing agency, based on previous resource experience remains available.

Currently there are eight sections of regulations for the RSP Certificate. Two sections are proposed to be deleted as they are included in the program standards. The remaining six sections have been updated and revised.
The proposed regulations will:

1) change the title of the certificate to ‘Added Authorization’ to better reflect the type of program completed and the type of document earned;
2) delete two regulation sections;
3) add new definitions and terms to clarify appropriate prerequisites and delete obsolete definitions;
4) update requirements for the preliminary and clear Resource Specialist Added Authorization (RSPAA); and
5) update the authorization for the preliminary and clear RSPAA.

Speech-Language Pathology (SLP) Services Credential
The Office of Administrative Law approved regulations for special education services credentials in the two areas of Orientation and Mobility and Audiology in June 2010. The Commission withdrew the section on requirements and authorizations for the SLP Services Credential from the regulation package.

The Commission met in June 2010 with representatives from the California Speech and Hearing Association (CASHA) to discuss the authorization for the SLP Services Credential which was the area of debate during the public hearing process in the last regulation package. The Commission is seeking an authorization that reflects the content completed in the approved program. These representatives met with the CASHA organization leadership and sent proposed wording for the authorization to the Commission. Staff reviewed the wording and incorporated the suggestions that were in conjunction with the standards for the SLP Services Credential. The proposed regulations mirror the content in the program standards.

The proposed regulations will:

1) add requirements to earn a preliminary and clear SLP credential aligned with the Education Code for California-prepared and out-of-state prepared educators;
2) add a validity period for the preliminary and clear SLP credential; and
3) add an authorization for the preliminary and clear SLP credential including definitions for Language, Speech, and Hearing Assessment and Educational Services.

Special Class Authorization (SCA)
The SCA allows an individual to provide instruction to special needs students in the areas of autism and speech and language impaired. The Commission may issue a SCA to holders of credentials that authorize speech services including the Speech-Language Pathology Services Credential. The California-prepared individual must complete an approved SCA program and additional requirements. Subject-matter competence is included as a requirement aligned with No Child Left Behind. The Reading Instruction Competence Assessment (RICA) and English learner component completed by teaching credential holders is also required. The out-of-state prepared individual must meet the requirements in the Education Code for out-of-state prepared special educators which include a comparable credential to teach autism and speech and language impaired and the English learner requirement.

The proposed regulations will:
1) add requirements to earn a clear SCA for California-prepared and out-of-state prepared educators including subject-matter competence, RICA, and English learner content;
2) add a validity period for a clear SCA; and
3) add an authorization for the clear SCA including definitions for Educational Assessment and Educational Services.
