Proposal to Develop a Strategic Plan

Introduction
The Commission’s current Strategic Plan was last updated in 2001. Not only does the Plan need to be addressed again, there also is a new Commission in place since the last Plan was adopted. A new Strategic Plan will help the current Commission articulate its goals and objectives. Staff is proposing that the Commission approve the development of a new five-year Strategic Plan that will become effective in January 2008. The Commission’s current Strategic Plan can be found at the end of this agenda item.

Background
The Commission developed its first Strategic Plan in 1997 prior to the State mandate that all agencies develop a Strategic Plan. The plan was updated in 2001, involving Commission members, staff and stakeholders in the preparation of the plan.

In 2004, although the Bureau of State Audits report recommended that the Commission update its Strategic Plan, the process was delayed due to a change in Governors. It is now an appropriate time to update the Commission’s Strategic Plan, given the advent of a new Commission and the fact that years have elapsed since the last plan’s inception. Commission staff is recommending the development of a five-year plan to help the Commission be more proactive in anticipating critical state needs, establish performance measures and to be better prepared to address other critical issues in the coming years. These issues might include educator supply and demand, educator preparation, and credentialing.

Why should an organization such as the Commission complete a strategic plan? A strategic plan serves as a guide to direct an organization to successfully identify and achieve its goals with measurable results. The Commission’s strategic planning effort focuses on taking control of its future and becoming a proactive rather than a reactive agency. With a strong Plan, an organization becomes more committed and focused on reaching the goals it has set out. Additionally, the creation of performance measures with consistent accountabilities will support the work required to meet the Commission’s goals.

To successfully develop a strategic plan, the Commission should solicit input from all of its stakeholders, Commission staff, and Commissioners. Thus the strategic plan will be developed based on input from all of these groups. Staff is proposing that input be gathered by surveying five separate sources:

- Commission Staff Survey (paper-based and selected interviews)
- Stakeholder Survey (web-based)
- Commissioner Survey (paper-based)
- Northern California Stakeholder Input Session
- Southern California Stakeholder Input Session
The data gathered from these surveys and input sessions will be reviewed by a planning team consisting of Commission staff and a Commissioner to identify key strategic business issues. These key issues will be presented to the Commission to help formulate the Commission’s Vision. Next, the planning team will consider the Commission’s Mission, Goals and Objectives and develop a set of updated goals and objectives for the Commission’s consideration. Below is a tentative timeline for developing the Commission’s updated Strategic Plan.
