Adoption of Revised California Administrator Performance Expectations

Executive Summary: This item presents the California Administrator Performance Expectations (CAPEs) for adoption. The CAPEs have been revised and aligned with the California Professional Standards for Education Leaders (CPSEL).

Policy Question: Are the proposed performance expectations (CAPEs) aligned to the California Professional Standards for Education Leaders (CPSEL) and are they ready for adoption by the Commission?

Recommended Action: Staff recommends adoption of the CAPEs to guide program development and to be used to determine what is measured on the Administrator Performance Assessment (APA).

Presenters: Amy Reising, Director of Performance Assessments, Steve Davis, Professor Emeritus, CalPoly Pomona, and Nicole Amador, Director, Educator Solutions for Licensing and Learning, Evaluation Systems group of Pearson

Introduction

This item presents revised draft California Administrator Performance Expectations (CAPEs), aligned with the California Professional Standards for Education Leaders (CPSEL). Approval of the CAPEs will allow Commission staff, an appointed Administrator Performance Assessment (CalAPA) Design Team, and the Commission's technical contractor, Evaluation Systems group of Pearson (Evaluation Systems), to move forward with the design and development of the Commission's model APA. The Commission's model APA will be called the CalAPA. The CalAPA Design Team includes fifteen members representing the full range of administrative services preliminary preparation programs, administrator induction programs, and the geographic regions of California. A list of CalAPA Design Team members is included in Appendix A. The CalAPA Design Team was convened for its first meeting on May 26, 2016 at the Commission. The APA Design Team, Commission staff and Evaluation Systems staff will continue to meet monthly through October of 2016, and then every other month through June of 2018. Appendix B includes a graphic showing how the APA Design Team, and other teams necessary to inform the design of the APA, will interact with the Commission, Commission staff, and Evaluation Systems. Appendix C includes a timeframe for completion of this project.

Background

At its September 2013 meeting, the Commission approved requiring a performance assessment for all preliminary administrative services credential candidates completing a Commission-approved preparation program and directed staff to move forward with the development and implementation of an Administrator Performance Assessment (APA) when sufficient resources became available (<http://www.ctc.ca.gov/commission/agendas/2013-09/2013-09-4E.pdf>).

The 2015 Budget Act provided funding to the Commission to support development of an APA. In anticipation of the opportunity to move forward with an APA, the Commission's Performance Assessment Work Group (one of the work groups working on the effort to strengthen and streamline the accreditation system) developed draft APA Design Standards and related APA Program Implementation Standards for Commission consideration. The Commission adopted the APA Program and Implementation standards at its February 2016 meeting.

Commission staff brought the draft APA Standards to the Commission for consideration at the April, October, and December 2015 meetings. Stakeholders provided feedback at each of these meetings about the need to update the California Administrator Performance Expectations (CAPEs) in light of the California Professional Standards for Education Leaders (CPSEL). The CAPEs govern preliminary administrator preparation programs, and the CPSEL govern new administrator induction, and while the two sets of standards have been adopted by the Commission within the last three years, implementation has indicated a need to bring these standards and expectations into closer alignment.

This item presents a proposed reorganization of the CAPEs that brings them into closer alignment with the CPSEL and a draft narrative text and statements that reflect edits resulting from recommendations made by stakeholders who participated in public sessions, from the April 21-22, 2016 meeting of the CAPE Alignment Team, from the May 19, 2016 meeting of the Commission's Bias Review Team, from the May 26, APA Design Team meeting, and from the preliminary analysis of data collected from the CTC's validity survey study, conducted from May 19 through May 27, 2016. (A validity data analysis of the full set of data collected through June 3, 2016 will be provided through an in-folder item prior to the June 16, 2016 Commission meeting.)

Alignment of the CAPEs and CPSEL

At its December 2015 meeting, the Commission was urged by some members of the stakeholder community, particularly the California Association of Professors of Education Administration (CAPEA), to postpone adoption of the APA Design Standards until a review of the CAPEs could be conducted, and the CAPEs could be revised and brought into stronger alignment with the CPSEL. Since the APA would be designed to assess key aspects of the CAPEs, it seemed reasonable to take more time to adopt the technical design standards in order to ensure that the performance expectations that would be assessed in APA's were appropriately aligned with the standards for the profession. Commission staff held an open meeting on January 7, 2016 at the Commission office.

Discussion focused on how to align the CAPEs to the CPSEL, how to represent details of preliminary practice that focus on issues of equity and social justice practices, how to keep the same structure for standards from preliminary to Induction programs, how the APA will measure the CAPEs and impact field work placement. Karen Kearney, of WestEd, shared documents showing how the CAPEs map to the CPSEL. She also shared Descriptions of Practice (a continuum of scales that describe growing administrative practice) that were recently developed and published for Administrator Induction programs based on the CPSEL. The group that participated in the January 2016 meeting welcomed these documents, and urged the staff to use them to revise and reorient the CAPEs using the same standard titles as the CPSEL to facilitate new administrators' movement into and through induction.

It is important to note that the DRAFT revised CAPEs do not stand in isolation from the rest of the Administrator Preparation Standards, which also include California Administrator Content Expectations (CEs) and a set of program standards that address other aspects of preparation program quality. CEs were introduced to support programs in building syllabi for program coursework. The CEs and the CAPEs together represent the knowledge and skills expected of beginning administrators when the credential recommendation is submitted. The CPSEL reflect an advanced level of preparation, and should build from the knowledge and skill base of the CEs and CAPEs. The CAPEs will be the primary document used for the development of the CalAPA, which will follow the process described in Appendix B.

CAPE Alignment Design Team Meeting

CTC staff worked with the California Comprehensive Center at (CA CC) WestEd to organize an Alignment Panel to review and propose revisions to increase the alignment of the CE, CAPEs, and CPSEL. Invitations to join the Panel were extended to program providers from UC, CSU, private universities, and County and District Offices of Education. A 2-day meeting was scheduled for April 21-22, 2016.

CA CC and Commission staff prepared for the Alignment Panel meeting, setting an agenda, creating and collecting resources and communicating with participants. Nine panelists, from County and District Office programs, UC, CSU, and a private institution (APU) participated. Three of the Panel members are also appointed to the APA Design Team. A representative from Evaluation Systems attended to observe the 2-day meeting. CA CC staff co-facilitated the meeting with Commission staff. The meeting began with a review of the Charge of the Panel and overview of the alignment process and resources.

The purpose of the Alignment Panel was to focus on improving the alignment between the CAPEs and the CPSEL. Alignment Team recommendations will be used by Commission staff and its facilitator, the CA Comprehensive Center at WestEd, to guide the final alignment revision to the CAPEs for approval by the Commission at its June 2016 meeting. Approval of the CAPEs will allow the Commission to move forward with developing an Administrator Performance Assessment that will use the CAPEs to measure preliminary candidate readiness for serving as a school leader.

Commission and CA CC staff set the stage for the alignment by describing the lens of developing a candidate from teacher to beginning administrator. Small group work involved aligning the CAPEs to the CPSEL, refining the CAPE descriptions, matching the CAPEs and the CE, and checking content, level and match for each alignment. After each step, a whole-group check-in allowed for calibration and building consensus throughout the alignments. A WestEd or Commission staff member worked with each group to ensure all updates were captured and posted in a folder created for the panel. At the end of Day 2 the group members shared thoughts, concerns and/or recommendations for going forward.

Points from the Panel for further consideration included:

- Emphasis on school administrators: APA is focused on building principals
- Make sure CAPEs are at a foundational level, not an expert level
- In a Preamble state assumptions of who the CAPEs address, levels, etc. Also distinguish conceptual and behavioral expectations (knowing and knowing how to do)
- “Student achievement” is very predominant – CPSEL also emphasized student well-being and health, and graduating college and career ready - may need to emphasize more in CAPE.

The CA CC took responsibility for the initial revisions of the CAPE document. The first step following the panel meeting was to incorporate all of the edits and suggestions into a single document. The alignment document then went through several revisions; to check for consistency of language and alignment of the CAPEs to CPSEL, add and align the CEs to the CAPEs and CPSEL, check the language of the Preparation Program Standards against the CEs and CAPEs to ensure that the standards were represented, and an additional review for consistency throughout the document.

As a result of the Alignment Team revisions:

- 2 CAPE were deleted, and the remaining 17 CAPEs were re-ordered to better align with the CPSEL.
- Some CEs were deleted, due to redundancy, and the remaining CEs were aligned under the CPSEL and associated CAPE.

The CAPEs were then submitted to Commission staff for further review and presentation to the Commission's Bias Review Team.

Commission Bias Review Team Meeting

The 17 revised CAPEs were reviewed by the Commission's Bias Review Committee on May 19, 2016. The role of the Bias Review Committee is specifically to address potential bias issues. Commission staff reviewed all committee findings and recommendations, including bias-related and content-related comments, and addressed all noted issues of potential bias by revising the CAPEs, as appropriate.

Administrative Services Credential Think Tank Meetings

Six Administrative Services Credential Think Tank meetings were held in Sacramento, Madera, San Jose, Northridge, San Louis Obispo, and San Diego between May 5 and May 19, 2016. The six meetings were well attended; 73 of the 80 approved Administrative Services program sponsors were represented. Information regarding the transition to the revised program standards for both levels of preparation and the CAPE alignment process were shared. Participants were invited to complete the validity survey. Themes that emerged from the meetings were similar to what the Alignment team identified as its goals:

- Ensure the CAPEs are at a foundational level that seamlessly progress into the CPSEL
- Incorporate student well-being and health, graduating college and career ready
- Develop the APA with a focus on building principals, instructional leadership, and school leadership

Validity Study of the CAPEs

Commission staff worked with its technical contractor, Evaluation Systems, to develop an online job analysis and validity survey of the 17 proposed CAPEs. The online survey was distributed to over 10,000 educators on May 19, 2016 and closed on June 3, 2016. The survey provided the opportunity for teachers, administrators, and those involved in administrator preparation at both the preliminary and induction levels, to review and provide feedback on three key questions in regard to the 17 proposed CAPEs.

Through 5-point Likert-type ratings and open-ended comments, the instrument collected judgments about each CAPE and the set of CAPEs. The three CAPE-level survey questions are listed below.

- 1) How important are the knowledge, skills, and abilities described by this narrative for competently performing the job of a beginning administrator during the first few months of an administration job in California?
- 2) Do you agree that the knowledge, skills, and abilities in this CAPE are written clearly?
- 3) How frequently are the knowledge, skills, and abilities described by this CAPE used by a beginning administrator during the first few months of an administration job in California?

After reviewing all 17 CAPEs, respondents were asked to make an overall rating about the set of CAPEs. The final question asked was: How well does this set of 17 CAPEs as a whole represent important knowledge, skills, and abilities required for competent performance by beginning California school administrators during the first few months on the job?

Respondents were asked to provide written explanations for any ratings that were not positive, for example, ratings of no importance or little importance OR strongly disagree or disagree.

Appendix D provides the revised text for CAPEs, aligned to each of the six CPSEL that were included in the Commission validity survey, conducted from May 19 through June 3, 2016.

Evaluation Systems reviewed the validity study plan and is in the process of analyzing the resulting data. The preliminary survey data set includes 1,116 respondents of which 268 were public school teachers, 777 were administrators, and 71 were administrator educators. This preliminary analysis indicates high ratings for all CAPEs and across all respondent groups. For all CAPEs, mean ratings for importance to the job, clarity, and frequency of use were at least 3.5 with the exception of the 3.31 mean frequency rating for CAPE 16: Understanding and Communicating Policy by administrator preparation faculty. Administrators and administrator educators rated CAPE 16 lowest on importance and frequency. However, teachers tended to rate CAPE 16 higher relative to the other CAPEs than did administrators and administrator educators.

In general, these preliminary survey ratings confirm that all of the CAPEs are critical to the work of a beginning administrator. Relatively few written comments were submitted in the preliminary set of data. Of the written comments submitted, two distinct themes emerged. The first was concern about the wordiness of the CAPEs and the second was about whether the CAPEs, as stated, are too ambitious for a beginning administrator in their first few months on the job. Appendix E provides the validation survey questions and preliminary mean ratings for public school teachers, administrators, and administrator educators. Data presented are current as of May 27, 2016. A full data set analysis is underway and will be presented through an in-folder item prior to the June 16, 2016 Commission meeting.

Draft Revised CAPEs aligned to the CPSEL

Commission staff revised the CAPEs based on feedback and suggestions from the Alignment Design Team, Bias Review Committee, the Administrative Services Credential Think Tank meetings, the APA Design Team and preliminary data from the CAPE survey. To show alignment, CAPEs are presented in a numbered sequence within the six CPSEL Standards. To reduce the extended narrative found in most of the CAPEs, CTC staff identified a lead sentence and then identified supporting expectations for performance as bullet points and placed them under the identified lead sentence. To ensure that no concepts from the narrative format were lost in the format reorganization, staff developed a color coded version and it is available for review. On June 1-2, 2016 the revised CAPEs were reviewed by an Evaluation Systems in-house editor. Minor edits for clarity of language were proposed and are incorporated in the CAPE draft included below. It is important to note that number order of the CAPEs does not indicate importance or primary focus. CAPEs are given a number to assist with use of the CAPEs during instruction and for program design and review.

A final analysis of the full set of validity data will be completed by Evaluation Systems once the online survey is closed on June 3, 2016. The full data set analysis will be presented as an in-folder item prior to the Commission meeting on June 16, 2016. If revisions to the CAPEs are warranted based on the findings of the final validity analysis, revised CAPEs will also be published as part of the in-folder item.

Staff recommends:

That revised CAPEs, aligned to the CPSEL, be reviewed and adopted.

Next Steps

Upon final approval of the CAPEs, Commission staff, the Commission's newly appointed CalAPA Design Team, and Evaluation Systems will move forward with the design and development of the Commission's Administrator Performance Assessment.
