Division of Professional Practices Workload Report

Introduction

To increase its oversight of the work of the Division of Professional Practices (DPP), in 2011 the Commission on Teacher Credentialing (Commission) directed staff to present information about DPP's workload as part of the Commission's agenda.

Background

The Commission's dashboard reports on six key measurements in line-graph form, showing both current year numbers as well as prior year numbers for comparison purposes.

The "Total Cases" are the number of open cases within DPP, including cases in the Intake Unit, before the Committee of Credentials (Committee), pending before the Commission, and pending an administrative hearing. At the end of December, the caseload was 2,898 which is just above the normal range of 2,600-2,800 cases. The trends in the data reflect this is not uncommon to rise above the normal range. This often occurs during phases of exceptional application submissions and does not cause concern for DPP.

"Cases Opened" are new cases opened during the month, from all sources, including criminal arrest notices, district reports, affidavits, and educators who self-report misconduct. In December, staff opened 538 cases, which is just above the normal range of 400-500 cases opened per month.

The "Initial Review" and "Formal Review" charts reflect the number of cases reviewed by the Committee, at its normal three-day meeting in December. The two-step process is required by statute. As expected, the Initial Review cases have increased to at least 90 or more cases per month as the reports of misconduct received return to normal levels.

"Cases Closed" is the number of matters closed by Commission action, Committee action or closed by staff where the Commission has given formal delegation of authority (i.e., single alcohol offenses that do not involve schools, minors, or publicity). In December, 362 cases were closed, which dropped just below the normal range of 400-500 cases per month. This is due to the timing of Commission cases from December, which will be completed after its February meeting.

"AG Cases" refer to cases in which an educator requests an administrative hearing to challenge the recommendation for discipline made by the Committee. An administrative hearing is an evidentiary proceeding where an administrative law judge hears and rules on the evidence. The Commission is represented in these hearings by the Office of the Attorney General (AG). The number of cases where the AG is representing the Commission is shown in the last graph. The number of cases currently at the administrative hearing stage is 143.

Next Steps

DPP is committed to work that is critical to public service and the Commission's mission. DPP continues to maintain a steady case production, while at the same time ensuring quality case preparation for the Committee.
