The following consent Item Amendments to the California Standards for the Teaching Profession Adopted by the Commission in February 2024 was corrected to include the Commission-directed amendments of incorporated language in track changes.

Amendments to the California Standards for the Teaching Profession Adopted by the Commission in February 2024

Introduction

This consent item presents the California Standards for the Teaching Profession (CSTP) with Commission-directed amendments of incorporated language in Appendix A. The item also presents a proposed extended transition timeline allowing program flexibility to make the transition to the CSTP as directed by the Commission at its February 2024 meeting.

Background

The California Standards for the Teaching Profession \(CSTP\) describe the set of knowledge, skills, and abilities characteristic of accomplished professional practice at the level expected of effective veteran teachers.

The CSTP are organized within six overarching and interrelated domains of teaching, as follows:

- 1) Engaging and Supporting All Students in Learning
- 2) Creating and Maintaining Effective Environments for Student Learning
- 3) Understanding and Organizing Subject Matter for Student Learning
- 4) Planning Instruction and Designing Learning Experiences for All Students
- 5) Assessing Students for Learning
- 6) Developing as a Professional Educator

Several research-based principles of effective teaching common to all of the six CSTP underlie and are an integral part of the Standards, whether expressly stated or not within a given CSTP and/or its component elements. These common underlying principles assert that effective teachers will develop their teaching practice over time in the following ways:

- teachers deepen their knowledge, skills, and abilities to effectively serve all students (including but not limited to students who are English learners, who may have disabilities, who may have experienced trauma, and who may have other individual learning needs).
- teachers deepen their knowledge, skills, and abilities particularly in the area of literacy, recognizing that all teachers are teachers of literacy skills within their respective subject specific credential areas.
- teachers deepen their knowledge, skills, and abilities to create and maintain welcoming classrooms and other instructional settings where students feel safe and supported to learn and interact respectfully with each other.
- teachers deepen their knowledge, skills, and abilities to value and incorporate the background knowledge and experiences of their students to support and promote student growth, development, and learning (i.e., exemplifying an asset-based perspective of their students).

- teachers deepen their knowledge, skills, and abilities to collaborate in mutually respectful partnership with families/guardians and others in the community to help support student growth, development, and learning.

Whether explicitly stated or not within a given CSTP, each of these principles should be understood as being incorporated as integral aspects of each of the CSTP and expected to be exemplified within effective professional practice by all teachers.

Education Code section 44279.2 calls for periodic review of the CSTP. An expert workgroup was appointed in 2020 to review and revise as needed the 2009 CSTP. The COVID pandemic stalled the work in 2021, which was restarted in late 2023, culminating with the revised CSTP being adopted at the Commission’s February 2024 meeting. At this meeting the Commission directed staff to incorporate specific amendments, which are included in Appendix A of this item. The required CSTP language edits found in Appendix A include:

- replacing “students with exceptional needs” to “students with disabilities.” This edit was incorporated six times.
- including “students with an Individualized Education Program (IEP)”. This edit was incorporated two times.
- including “English Learner Roadmap.” This edit was incorporated two times.

Additionally, per Commission directive at the February 2024 meeting to extend the timeline for Teacher Induction program implementation of the CSTP, the following amendments for Teacher Induction Program Transition to the 2024 CSTP are proposed:

Date	Action
April 2024	The Commission adopts proposed revised 2024 CSTP
March – June 2024	Expert work group develops the Continuum of Teaching Practice
Fall 2024	Approved Teacher Induction programs notify the Commission of their intended date for full implementation of the revised CSTP (academic year 2025-26*, or academic year 2026-27).
April 2024 -July 2025	PSD Staff provide Technical Assistance to Teacher Induction Programs to understand and implement the revised CSTP
August 2025–July 2026	PSD Staff continue to provide targeted Technical Assistance for Teacher Induction Programs needing additional time to align to the revised CSTP in academic year 2026-2027
Fall 2026	All Teacher Induction Programs are aligned with the 2024 CSTP, and approved programs have submitted to the Commission an assurance statement verifying full CSTP 2024 implementation within the Teacher Induction Program.

Note: A Commission-approved Teacher Induction program could elect to implement the 2024 CSTP more quickly than the process outlined above.*

Staff Recommendation

That the Commission approve the revised California Standards for the Teaching Profession (CSTP) in Appendix A.

Next Steps

Once the revised CSTP are adopted by the Commission, staff will notify the field and begin to provide technical assistance and support to Teacher Induction programs as they transition to the 2024 CSTP and incorporate them into their approved programs. Staff will also monitor Teacher Induction programs and confirm that CSTP implementation statements are submitted ensuring that by Fall 2026 all approved programs are using the 2024 CSTP. Additionally, Commission staff will work with the California Department of Education and additional new teacher development experts to revise the Continuum of Teaching Practice (CTP) which provides qualitative descriptions of CSTP based teaching practice on five levels of development.

2024 CALIFORNIA STANDARDS FOR THE TEACHING PROFESSION (CSTP)

Introduction

Teachers are the single most important classroom factor in student learning and achievement. Research demonstrates that the greatest influence on learning progression is having highly expert, inspired, and passionate teachers who work with school leaders, to maximize the effect of their teaching for all learners in their care. The effort to educate every California learner is an incredibly complex undertaking. Thus, continuously strengthening the teaching profession by equipping teachers with effective practices based on available evidence is critical. Moreover, because what teachers know and are able to do directly influences student learning and well-being, educators must have a deep awareness and understanding of what quality teaching looks like—and of how to implement it for every student every day.

The California Standards for the Teaching Profession (CSTP) are foundational for teacher preparation and teacher induction. They also serve as a guide for educator professional learning, development, and evaluation statewide. With the ultimate goal of improving student learning and well-being, the standards provide a broad and complex vision of the teaching profession within which all teachers can define and develop their practice. They also provide a common language for communication and dialogue, and thus play an important role in prompting educators to reflect about student learning and teaching practice; formulate professional goals that improve teaching practice in support of student learning; and guide, monitor, and assess their progress toward professional goals.

Since their inception in the 1990s, the CSTP have been widely influential in California policy and practice. Codified in the California Education Code (EC §44279.1), the standards have been updated over time so that they continue to be relevant and useful in the face of changes in learning expectations and priorities, shifts in student populations, and increased attention on outcomes that incorporate such factors as diversity, equity, and inclusion. This 2024 update was developed by the Commission on Teacher Credentialing in partnership with the California Department of Education (CDE). During 2022–23, the Commission and the CDE engaged a diverse work group of expert practitioners and policymakers from across the state in an in-depth study and revision process. The work group used research, professional literature, an array of California documents, examples from other states, constituent input and comments from online review, and expert consultation to inform decisions about content and structural changes that would revitalize the CSTP.

The 2024 CSTP represent an expertly informed consensus on expectations for the teaching profession. They lay groundwork for next steps in continuously improving teaching in ways that equitably benefit all learners' academic achievement and well-being. The standards attend to the social, emotional, physical, cognitive, and academic needs of learners. Their focus is to ensure inclusive learning experiences based on individual learner assets and needs while also creating equitable outcomes for all. The revised CSTP also highlight enhanced family and community engagement practices, with an emphasis on two-way communication to develop positive and reciprocal family and community connections. Additionally, the standards include indicators for teaching performance in relation to digital citizenship, restorative justice, a growth mindset, and the implementation of a continuous growth model.

The revised CSTP also acknowledge the increasing complexities of teaching. The standards feature evidence-based strategies that address learners' academic and social-emotional development; apply to classroom, school, district, and community settings; include actions for both individual teachers and collaborative teaching; and provide strategies that support teachers' professional judgment while attending to state standards and frameworks, along with family and community goals. The purpose of these standards is to enable teachers to meet the needs of all learners (collective), each learner (individual), and every learner, including but not limited to specifically historically and persistently underserved students.

The Scope of the Updated California Standards for the Teaching Profession (CSTP)

The 2024 CSTP identify and clarify effective teaching strategies that have positive impacts on student achievement and well-being. They describe critical areas of effective teaching and offer a structure to help teachers and other constituents navigate the complexity of teaching and continuously improve practice. A single approach to professional practice will not be effective for all practitioners in all contexts. Although the standards articulate a common vision of excellence in teaching, different teachers have different ways of enacting the standards effectively for the learners they teach. The CSTP provide a framework within which teachers and others can develop individualized action-oriented goals and strategies, with details tailored to their particular learners and contexts—the kind of practice, in other words, that is most likely to result in quality teaching for the state's broad range of learners and teaching circumstances.

Intentionally broad in scope, the CSTP:

- Represent a holistic view of teaching, organized to address the complexity of educating California's diverse learners.
- Shape and support teacher behaviors and skills for evidence-based practice that generates equitable, high-quality education.
- Address effective teaching across grade levels—from pre-K early learning through classrooms organized primarily for adults.
- Outline the principles and foundations of teaching practice across all subject areas.
- Provide scaffolding for coherent, ongoing development of teachers across career stages, from teacher preparation through highly accomplished practice.
- Work in concert with state standards, frameworks, guides, and resources that focus on teaching specific subject matter and skills or on various types of learners.

The CSTP Big Ideas and Structure

The updated CSTP are organized into six broad, interdependent standards that embed California's vision for teaching in an effective, equitable learning system. This six-topic footprint is similar to the previous CSTP (2009) and is intended to facilitate the use of extant research and resources that might be helpful in implementing the updated standards. It also parallels other California state professional standards, such as the California Professional Standards for Education Leaders (CPSEL) and the Quality Professional Learning Standards (QPLS).

Each of the six Standards includes Elements and Example Indicators—a format that illustrates, in increasing detail, the implementation of high-quality teaching. The Elements highlight four to seven focus areas within each standard. They serve to clarify the intention of the standard and help define key components of teaching within the standard. Example Indicators are samples of how a teacher might demonstrate the standard or the element within their own teaching. The example indicators are not intended to be a comprehensive or required list of behaviors. Rather, they illustrate the standard or the element in teacher practice.

The 2024 California Standards for the Teaching Profession (CSTP) are:

CSTP 1: Engaging and Supporting All Students in Learning

Teachers apply knowledge about each student to activate an approach to learning that strengthens and reinforces each student’s participation, engagement, connection, and sense of belonging.

CSTP 2: Creating and Maintaining Effective Environments for Student Learning

Teachers create and uphold a safe, caring, and intellectually stimulating learning environment that affirms student agency, voice, identity, and development and promotes equity and inclusivity.

CSTP 3: Understanding and Organizing Subject Matter for Student Learning

Teachers integrate content, processes, materials, and resources into a coherent, culturally relevant, and equitable curriculum that engages and challenges learners to develop the academic and social–emotional knowledge and skills required to become competent and resourceful learners.

CSTP 4: Planning Instruction and Designing Learning Experiences for All Students

Teachers set a purposeful direction for instruction and learning activities, intentionally planning, and enacting challenging and relevant learning experiences that foster each student’s academic and social–emotional development.

CSTP 5: Assessing Students for Learning

Teachers employ equitable assessment practices to help identify students’ interests and abilities, to reveal what students know and can do, and to determine what they need to learn. Teachers use that information to advance and monitor student progress as well as to guide teachers’ and students’ actions to improve learning experiences and outcomes.

CSTP 6: Developing as a Professional Educator

Teachers develop as effective and caring professional educators by engaging in relevant and high-quality professional learning experiences that increase their teaching capacity, leadership development, and personal well-being. Doing so enables teachers to support each student to learn and thrive.
