Programs of Professional Preparation for Speech-Language Pathology

California Baptist University
California Baptist University will offer a Master of Science in Speech Pathology program that will prepare candidates with the necessary skills and knowledge to assume the duties of a school Speech and Language Pathologist. The program is built on and aligns to the standards for both the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA) and the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC). This full-time two-year program pairs academic knowledge of theory and skills with application experiences in clinical practicum courses. Each semester students will participate in a practicum experience that is directly tied to the coursework. Initial coursework will build candidate knowledge of potential needs (pediatric language disorders, articulation and phonological disorders, acquired neurogenic language disorders, acquired cognitive disorders), special populations (multicultural and multilingual issues, autism spectrum), as well as diagnostic assessments and research skills. In the second year, candidates will continue to build fluency in diagnosing and addressing issues (voice and resonance, motor speech) and will learn to apply those skills in public school settings as part of coursework and practicum. Candidates will be evaluated by the faculty as well as professionals in the field through their assignments as well as rating scales. In addition to assessments within the coursework and practicum experiences, candidates will complete two comprehensive exams - one each year - to establish clear competence of each of the necessary skills. Candidates who successfully complete the program will be eligible for the Master of Science in Speech Pathology as well as the Speech-Language Pathology credential.

Programs of Professional Preparation for Preliminary General Education Multiple Subject Intern

Santa Clara University

Santa Clara University (SCU) will offer a Multiple Subject (MS) intern program. The SCU program will prepare intern candidates with the knowledge, skills and dispositions to work effectively in diverse classroom settings. The MS intern program is aligned with the newly developed California Teaching Performance Expectations (TPEs) (adopted, June 2016). Moreover, the MS intern program is designed to be completed over a two-year period with frontloaded course work that prepares candidates before they take on teaching responsibilities. Coursework throughout the program is coupled with an intern practicum experience where SCU supervisors observe and provide feedback on intern candidates’ development. A school mentor similarly provides feedback on the MS intern candidate’s progress in meeting the TPEs. Both the SCU supervisor and school mentor will evaluate MS intern candidates’ progress in illustrating the TPEs in their instruction. Teaching Performance Assessments 1-4, exit survey, student course grades, and candidate observation data are all used to monitor and evaluate the efficacy of the MS intern program.

Programs of Professional Preparation for Preliminary General Education Single Subject Intern

Santa Clara University

Santa Clara University (SCU) will offer a Single Subject (SS) intern program. The SCU program will prepare SS intern candidates with the knowledge, skills and dispositions to work effectively in diverse classroom settings. The SS intern program is aligned with the newly developed California Teaching Performance Expectations (TPEs) (adopted, June 2016). Moreover, the SS intern program is designed to be completed over a two-year period with frontloaded course work that prepares candidates before they take on teaching responsibilities. Coursework throughout the program is coupled with an intern practicum experience where SCU supervisors observe and provide feedback on intern candidates’ development. A school mentor similarly provides feedback on the SS intern candidate’s progress in meeting the TPEs. Both the SCU supervisor and school mentor will evaluate SS intern candidates’ progress in illustrating the TPEs in their instruction. Teaching Performance Assessments 1-4, exit survey, student course grades, and candidate observation data are all used to monitor and evaluate the efficacy of the SS intern program.

Programs of Professional Preparation for Education Specialist: Early Childhood Special Education Intern

Los Angeles Unified School District (LAUSD)

The Los Angeles Unified School District’s (LAUSD) District Intern program will provide an Early Childhood Special Education Preliminary Credential program that will prepare candidates with the necessary skills and knowledge to assume the duties of an Education Specialist teacher for Early Childhood. The program is aligned to the standards for the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (CTC). This two-year program pairs academic knowledge of theory and skills with application experiences for Interns who will concurrently be teachers of record in an early education setting in LAUSD. Interns will participate in coursework that is directly tied to their experiences in the classroom and to a theoretical base of Early Childhood Special Education. Initial coursework will build candidate knowledge in the areas of child development, theoretical, philosophical, legal, and empirical foundations conducted during the four week Pre-Service which participants are required to complete prior to entering their position as an intern. Upon entering the classroom, each intern will be assigned a like-credentialed mentor who will track the progress of the intern while providing essential support and feedback during the two year program. Interns will be evaluated by the instructional faculty throughout the two year program through their assignments which are rated based on the CTC standards. Site administrators will evaluate each candidate on their classroom effectiveness as they progress through the two year program. Interns who successfully complete the program and who receive satisfactory classroom evaluations will be recommended for a Preliminary Education Specialist credential in Early Childhood by the LASUD District Intern program at the end of the two-year period.
