

Report of Program Accreditation Recommendations

February 2018

Overview

This report is divided into two parts: Part 1 includes are items for action by the COA which include program approvals for new programs, requests to withdraw (including automatic withdrawals) and requests to reactivate inactive programs.

Part 2 provides information on programs that have transitioned to revised program standards, and programs that have elected to change to “inactive” status. These items are for notification and require no action by the COA.

Part 1

The following items call for action by the Committee on Accreditation:

Staff Recommendation

That the Committee on Accreditation grants initial accreditation (A) to the following preparation program(s), as recommended by the appropriate reviewers, (B) take action to withdraw the following preparation programs as requested by the institution, and (C). take action to reactivate the program as requested (D), and

A. Programs for Approval by the Committee on Accreditation

There were no programs to approve at the time of posting. Program approvals may be added prior to the COA meeting.

B. Recommendation about the Withdrawal of Professional Preparation Programs

Withdrawal of the following programs has been requested by the institutions offering them. The date of withdrawal will be the date of the COA's action or, if requested, up to 6 months after the date the COA is notified of withdrawal.

When an institution withdraws an educator preparation program the institution must wait a minimum of one year before the institution may request re-accreditation of the program (Accreditation Handbook, Chapter 3.)

Fresno Pacific University

Education Specialist (Level II) Mild/Moderate Program, effective March 1, 2018

Automatic Withdrawal for Programs of Professional Preparation

Programs which have met or exceeded the maximum five-year period allowable by the accreditation system are automatically withdrawn. The date of withdrawal will be the date of the COA's action - application.

C. Professional Preparation Programs Requesting Reactivation

When an approved program has requested an Inactive status, the program must return to the COA to request to be Reactivated. Depending on the amount of time that the program has been inactive and if there have been updated or new standards adopted, the COA may request additional information from the institution including for the institution to address the COA and describe the steps being taken to reactivate the program, or require a new program proposal be submitted and reviewed.

Staff will review all requests to reactivate a program and make a recommendation to the COA. The recommendation will consider the length of time a program has been inactive, the place the institution is in the accreditation cycle, if standards for the program have been recently updated, and any other information related to the program. The COA may accept the staff recommendation or require the program to present additional information prior to taking action on the request.

Chapter 3 of the Accreditation Handbook states:

An inactive program may be re-activated only when the institution submits a request to the COA and the COA has taken action to reactive the program. If the program standards under which the program was approved have been modified, the institution or program sponsor must address the updated standards before the program may be re-activated.

To the Committee on Teacher Credentialing:

On behalf of the University of San Francisco, School of Education, I am writing to express my full support and excitement for the launch of our revised Administrative Services Credential. As you are aware, we had put the program on hiatus for a number of years to make sure that the content and purpose aligned with both the standards and guidelines of the CTC, as well as the mission of our School. In efforts to address the myriad of issues that school leaders face in the field, the Department of Leadership Studies in the School of Education at the University of San Francisco has redesigned its historic Tier I Administrative Services Credential program. The new program design reflects the following adjustments:

- A Social Justice Emphasis aligned with the strategic plan of the School of Education
- Revisions and new courses grounded in contemporary school leadership challenges
- 30 Units for MA degree standards
- Summer-to-Summer design
- Integrated Human Resources, Budget & Finance, and Education & Law to reflect the intersectionality present in the field.
- Change from a 2 -year program to a Summer- to-Summer Intensive Program
- Easier integration of our Catholic Educational Leadership students.

We appreciate the CTC's ongoing support of our programs and grateful for your close collaboration. We look forward to working with you as we re-start the Administrative Services Credential program.

Sincerely,

Shabnam Koirala Azad
Dean, School of Education
